DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The new title "Stator of AC Generator for Use in a Vehicle With Radially Aligned, Rectilinear Polymorphic Cross-Section Conductor Wires" has been entered into the file wrapper. The requirement of a new title is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kurihashi et al.(Kurihashi)(JP 63-194,543) and Schorm et al.(Schorm)(US 5,341,561). Kurihashi teaches a cylindrical stator core 6 with teeth 7 and slots, a rectilinear (polymorphic) coil slots with a radial longitudinal orientation. Kurihashi teaches the coils taking up 80% of the slot space. Kurihashi teaches every aspect of the invention except the rectilinear coils aligned radially. Schorm teaches the equivalence of the wires aligned radially(figures 8 and 9) and circumferentially(figures 1-7). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention that the coils of Kurihashi could be aligned radially instead of circumferentially because Schorm teaches the equivalence of the longitudinal axis being radial or circumferential, where it is within the ordinary skill in the art to choose between known equivalents, and because Schorm teaches the rectilinear windings can be bundled for assembly into the stator core.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 4/17/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Applicant's argument that Schorm does not teach the longitudinal axis of the windings being radial for radial rigidity is not persuasive. The fact that applicant has recognized another advantage which would flow naturally from following the suggestion of the prior art cannot be the basis for patentability when the differences would otherwise be obvious. See Ex parte Obiaya, 227 USPQ 58, 60 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1985). Schorm teaches the windings can be wound with the longitudinal axis of the windings being radial (figure 7) or circumferential (figure 8). It is within the ordinary skill in the art to choose between know equivalents. The radial stiffness observed by the applicant is merely an incidental benefit shown in the known winding structure, as shown by Schorm.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
